A digital heart rendered in a low-poly, wireframe style with a red-to-orange gradient. The heart is centered and appears to be floating above a circular, glowing orange base. The background is dark blue and black, filled with various data visualization elements: line graphs, bar charts, and circuit-like patterns. The overall aesthetic is futuristic and technological.

The image features a stylized eye shape. The upper portion of the eye is formed by a dense, glowing ring of golden-yellow particles, resembling a galaxy or a starburst. The lower portion is a blue, digital-looking mesh of points and lines, suggesting a network or data structure. The background is dark, making the glowing elements stand out.
